

What Join us for a free screening of Resilience: Transforming Our Community, a different kind of climate change film – one that inspires hope and offers solutions.

Why If you want to know more about how climate change impacts Grey/Bruce and beyond. If you are concerned how a changing climate will affect you and your family. If you want to see what others are doing? If you want to talk about your concerns.

Who Retired marine scientist John Anderson shares his knowledge about Grey/Bruce impacts and solutions. John believes we each have the power to make positive changes locally. We all want our grandchildren to have a secure future, but we're concerned. Climate change could drastically affect their lives. Co-producers Liz Zetlin and John Anderson want to share this film with you. (Thanks to the Community Foundation Grey/Bruce and many generous donors for their financial support).

The movie is 55 minutes long, and after we watch it, we'll have a discussion about what we can all do together on this important issue.

When:

Where:

RSVP:

film website for more info: Resilience: Transforming Our Community